The Cool Kitchen

Hot, humid weather was always dreaded by the housewife because it meant working over a hot stove in a kitchen made almost insufferable with the excess heat. It is the sort of thing that saps the vitality of a woman and makes her prematurely old.

Today, the gas range and the gas water heater are available. They do better and quicker work without any appreciable waste of heat. The heat of the gas is taken up directly by the food that is being cooked or is absorbed by the water in the coils of the water heater.

The gas equipped kitchen enables the housewife to prepare all the meals in comparative comfort, even in the hottest weather.

Let us show you how to be cool in your kitchen.

"CRAWLING" AUTO HIT TROLLEY CAR

Knocked It Off the Track and Turned it Across Street Although Fatt of Newburgh Says He Was "Crawling."

A seven passenger Cole touring car that was "just crawling along," going only about ten miles an hour, according to the owner, struck a Kingston City trolley car at the corner of Main and Fair streets about 10 o'clock Sunday afternoon and hit with such force that the heavy trolley car was derailed and turned around until it completely blocked Fair street, the front of the trolley car almost touching the curb in front of the Ulster county clerk's office and the rear almost resting on the curb in front of the Burgevin building.

The automobile which was able to go so much damage, while "just crawling along" was owned and driven by Harry Fatt of South Water street, Newburgh, who was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Kempler, also of Newburgh, and several children.

The trolley car, in charge of Motorman David G. Brown of No. 117 Main street and Conductor Raymond Brown of No. 11 Dederick street, left the North Front street terminal of the Kingston City division at 1 o'clock without passengers and proceeded at the usual rate of speed along Fair street for two blocks. As the trolley car began to cross Main street, Motorman David Brown saw the touring car coming from Main street from the direction of Clinton avenue, traveling at a rate of speed which he says he realized made a collision inevitable unless he could get across the street. Accordingly he "shot the juice" to the trolley car, the rear wheels of which had just reached the Colonial tracks which cross Fair street there, when the touring car struck the heavy trolley just back of the rear wheels.

The impact of the automobile with the trolley car pushed the trolley car from the track with such force that the rear wheels made an almost perfect quarter of a circle on the brick pavement. When the trolley car stopped moving, its position was at right angles to the direction in which it had been moving, completely blocking Fair street, practically covering the sidewalk from the Burgevin building to the county clerk's office.

The force of the collision was sufficient to knock both Motorman Brown and Conductor Brown from their feet, but they clung to the car and were uninjured. The occupants of the touring car were entirely unharmed and did not seem to share the excitement which prevailed among the crowd which quickly collected. The touring car was pushed into the Ulster Garage, less than half a block away on Fair street, where an examination was made to ascertain the extent of the damage. Mr. Fatt and Mr. Kempler both being anxious to return to Newburgh it temporary repairs could be made.

The effect of the collision on the touring car was not as damaging as on the trolley car. The running board of the trolley car was splintered for half its length and the other woodwork was split or splintered. The bumper on the touring car was bent upward, the front axle was slightly bent, the front end of the springs were bent, and there was slight damage to the mudguards. The engine apparently was not damaged, and the radiator was found to be sound.

In explaining the accident, neither Mr. Fatt nor Mr. Kempler took any blame to themselves. They said their automobile had been "just crawling along, going only about ten miles an hour," when it struck the trolley car, whose approach on Fair street was hidden by the building of the Kingston Trust Company until they were practically on top of the trolley car.

After photographs had been taken of the damaged trolley car by Lou Merrill of The Pennington Studio, the wrecking car of the trolley company hauled the damaged car back on the track and it was taken to the car barn for repairs.

People who visited the scene of the accident while the trolley car still blocked Main street expressed amazement that an ordinary seven passenger touring car could bump a heavy trolley car from its tracks to the position in which the Kingston City car was left unless the automobile had been traveling at a rate exceeding forty miles an hour, which is Motorman Brown's estimate of the touring car's speed when he saw it coming toward him. Both the motorman and conductor only had time to seize hold of the uprights which support the roof at each end of the car to prevent being thrown from the car when the automobile struck it. What might have happened if the trolley car had contained any passengers furnished a topic of conversation in many places during Sunday and today. There also has been much talk of the amount of regard which reckless motorists have for themselves and those who are traveling with them when they speed through city streets at a rate than can knock a heavy trolley car from the track and shove it half way across the street.

The police reached the scene of the accident quickly and handled most efficiently the heavy traffic, which was passing during the half-hour blockade, but failed to make any arrest.

Beckendorf Visits Cane.

Henry Beckendorf, who was the catcher on the Kingston baseball team in 1903-04, under the management of Hank Ramsey in the days of the old Hudson River League, and later went with the Montreal team and for two seasons was with the Detroit National League, motored to town from New York Sunday and visited John J. Cane at Katrine Inn. Mr. Beckendorf was accompanied by his wife and her mother. He appears fat and prosperous and says he will endeavor to arrange to bring a team of "real" baseball players to Kingston and play the Colonials.

He Saw the Fight.

Thomas J. Leonard of Greenkill avenue, who has been visiting friends in New York and New Jersey, has returned home. He reports seeing the Leonard-Tendler boxing contest at Boyle's Thirty Acres, on Thursday evening of last week.

By J. J. J.

Put your hammer in the locker. With your hand-ax do likewise. Any one can be a knocker. Any one can criticize. Cultivate the building habit. Though it hurts your face to smile; At the start it may go awkward, But you'll get it after while.

The village loafer ought to move to the city where he won't attract any attention.

"Are you going any farther west?"

"I planned to," said the foreign visitor. "Is there any danger from Indians?"

"Not if you keep out of the way of their motor cars."

They were making the well-known "color-test" for some recruits who wanted to become locomotive engineers. Sandy Leath was on the stand.

"And now," said the examiner, "tell us what color this light is?" "I can't tell you unless you take the red globe off of it," replied Leath, and he got the job.

Why the Crowd Laughed.

Lecturer (in loud voice): "I venture to say to this crowd of people that there isn't a man in this audience tonight who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our vast forests?"

As he paused for breath a little man in the back row rose timidly: "Yes, I have: I killed a couple of woodpeckers once."

"Is May the kind of a girl that gives you any encouragement?" "Judge for yourself. The last time I called on her she kept wondering what it would feel like to have whiskers on her face."

Revenge may be sweet, but it leaves a bitter taste.

HOME MADE RUGS EXHIBIT AT CROSSPATCH ANNEX.

Willow, July 31.—Quite a number of people have written Mrs. Cross that they will bring patched quilts, braided rugs and woven rugs to the exhibit to be held Wednesday, August 2, at Crosspatch Annex, in Willow valley.

This is the first time such an exhibit has been held in Willow. Everybody who has anything of interest is asked to bring them Wednesday afternoon. No admission will be charged and Crosspatch fruit punch will be served. There will be music and games, especially barnyard golf or horse-shoe pitching and bean bag throws for those who like a bit of amusement along with their art.

"So many people between Kingston and Willow have such lovely, quaint pieced quilts," says Mrs. Cross. "I think they hardly realize what a pleasure it would be to exhibit them, so we all could see them. If anyone has an old fashioned tacked rug, I would love to have the loan of it for the afternoon."

"Even if the quilts and rugs are not for sale, it's a pleasure to look at them and others might be encouraged to copy the patterns and revive the industry. City people have a perfect craze for these things of the old days. City vacation people are especially invited, as some very beautiful pieces will be for sale."

"I hope our city friends will be so pleased with this exhibit that they will talk it over with their friends when they go home and soon be sending orders to our Willow neighborhood. We still have people who would enjoy spending winter evenings at patchwork and rag rugs."

"On Wednesday evening the weekly dance will be held, but those who are especially interested in the exhibit should come in the afternoon, as some of the best of the loaned exhibits will be taken home at the close of the afternoon session."

Mrs. Cross has made a study of interior decoration and will give a little talk in the afternoon. Her sister, Miss Mac Donald, will exhibit some very lovely china and bric-a-brac.

LIVER VICTIMS CAN HATE THEIR FRIENDS

Monday Health Talk No. 92
The victims of liver trouble are so miserable that it is easy to hate their friends. This is not saying that every victim of liver trouble has enemies in this way, as human nature is educated to suffering and we seldom visit our misery on others.

The liver controls more than any other organ, the proper action of the bowels. If the bowels are inactive and waste matter accumulates in the lower intestinal tract, the sufferer has what is known as auto-intoxication or self-poisoning. This waste matter being held in the body is re-absorbed into the blood stream and raises the natural result.

The chiropractor finds in such cases a misplacement of the spinal bones which causes pressure on the spinal nerves to the liver. By chiropractic spinal adjustments this pressure is removed and healthful liver action naturally follows.

FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDS.

"For five years I had trouble which medical physicians diagnosed as angiod liver and pancreatic trouble without giving me any benefit. I had practically given up hope when I tried chiropractic spinal adjustments. I can truthfully say that today I am fully restored to health. I want the facts to be published."—Frank L. Heath, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 13028.

PARKER AXLES ARE ON EVEN TERMS

Wetmore's Strengthened Club Takes Sunday's Contest—Colonials Failed to Hit Tobin With Men on the Bases—Large Crowd in Attendance.

However deep the depression that existed at 125 Main street, Poughkeepsie, and other places in the Bridge City Saturday night, all was different yesterday. Joy reigned supreme in the Parker Axles camp, for had they not evened things up with the Colonials for the defeat of the day before? They had. And to add insult to injury, the men of Wetmore did it before the biggest crowd of the year, taking an 8 to 2 game from Captain Schrick's cohorts.

Saturday's game taught Wetmore a lesson, and it was a much different team that faced the Colonials yesterday. Freddie sent a hurry call to Fort Stoom and brought back Mike Merrill, according to Freddie himself the best catcher he ever had. At shortstop and second base he had the two Stanley brothers, but it was the pitching department that showed the biggest change. "Bres" Tobin, a former Southern League pitcher, was the occupant of the box for the Parker Axles, and it must be said that "Bres" is the goods. A slow ball and a fine change of pace had the Colonial hitters baffled.

Bill McAuliffe started the game for the Kingston club, but it didn't take long to see that it wasn't Mac's day. Five hits for four runs were made by the Poughkeepsians in the inning and one-third that Mac pitched, and Bud Culloton, who had pitched the full game the day before, took McAuliffe's place in the box. Bud succeeded in quelling the attack, allowing only one earned run in the seven innings he pitched. "Red" Wagner took Bud's place in the last inning and only three men faced him, two going down on strikes.

It was intimated before that Tobin was a real pitcher, and he had plenty of opportunity to prove it yesterday. In every inning of the nine the Colonials had men on the bases, but the hit to put them across was not forthcoming. In the fourth the Kingston club had three men on and only one down, and not a runner scored. In the sixth there were two men on and none out, but third base was the dead line. Try as they might, the Kingston hitters could not hit one safe when men were in a scoring position, except in the second, when two men were pushed across the plate.

Saturday's defeat didn't seem to discourage the Bridge City rooters, and a big contingent was on hand for yesterday's game. And that they enjoyed themselves thoroughly need not be explained. As the society column of a Poughkeepsie paper puts it, "all those present from Poughkeepsie a most enjoyable time and all departed vowing the Colonials very good hosts."

Right at the start the rooters from down the river had a chance to yell, and they did. With one down in the first Charlie Terpening cracked a single to left, and went to second while Carpenter was being thrown out at first by McAuliffe. Freddie Dahm, captain of Wetmore's crew, went in a blow for his cause and Terpening rode home.

The first inning was good practice for the Poughkeepsie rooters, but the second gave them something worth while. It didn't look like an auspicious beginning when Davis was thrown out at first on a grounder to McAuliffe, but F. Stanley hit one down the third base line for a single. Merrill hit a grounder to Gallit, and it looked like a double play, but here is where the Colonials got a tough break. Gallit's throw was wild and went by Moore to right field. Stanley scoring and Merrill going to third. Merrill scored a minute later when a pitch by McAuliffe hit in front of the plate, and went to the grand stand. Tobin cracked one to left for two bases, and Foster followed with another blow to center good for two sacks. Tobin coming home. At this point Culloton took McAuliffe's place in the box. McAuliffe going to left in place of Schwab. Terpening, the first hitter to face Bud, also had the two base fever and banged a double to left. Foster coming home. Then Bud forced Carpenter and Dahm to fly out to Deegan.

A five run lead didn't discourage the Colonials, and they went in for the second determined to get some of the runs back. Coyle waited, and went down to first on four bad ones, but Jack Robins couldn't help him along, going out on a fly to Dahm. McAuliffe came to the front with a two base blow to left. Coyle going to third. Culloton rapped another hit to left, sending Coyle and McAuliffe home, but Bud was thrown out trying to make second when Foster intercepted Dahm's throw some and threw to J. Stanley. Moore was safe on a top in front of the plate which Merrill tumbled and then threw wild to first and Fitzgerald took first when a fourth ball grazed his back. Artie Rice was put in to hit for Gallit, but Artie's effort was a hit to J. Stanley, forcing Fitzgerald at second.

Glaser took Gallit's place on third in the third inning, the Catskill boy having a bad sore arm. Deegan was shifted to his old position at short. With three men on and only one out in the fourth, it looked like some more Colonial runs, but Breslin was a mighty hard man to solve in a pinch. Robins was given a walk to start the inning, but McAuliffe went out on strikes, it being Tobin's only strike-out of the game. Culloton followed with a single to center and Moore kept it up by shooting one to left for a sack, filling the bases. The Kingston fans were yelling loudly for a hit, but it wasn't to be. Fitzgerald sent up a hard fly which Terpening captured near second base after a hard run, and Glaser left the runners stranded with a fly to Dahm in left.

The Bridge City club added one more in the fifth, Dahm starting it by a single to center. J. Stanley forced Dahm at second, and Davis was a victim on strikes. F. Stanley drove a wicked grounder at Glaser on which Dahm made a beautiful stop, but the throw to first was a bit wide and pulled Coyle off the bag. J. Stanley coming home on the play. Tobin must have carried a horse shoe with him when he went to bat in the sixth. He cracked one of Culloton's shoots to left field, the ball hitting the top of the fence, and bounded outside. Tobin trotted leisurely around the bases. Freddie Wetmore growing so excited that he met him at the plate and would have presented him with a bouquet, but he didn't have the bouquet.

It might be well to stop here for a moment and say something about the much maligned pitcher as a batter. Tobin got a double and a home run out of three times up yesterday, not bad work for a pitcher. As for Culloton, the best the Colonial pitcher could do was four singles in four times up. That ain't so awful for a pitcher, come to think of it.

The Parker Axles scored their last run in the eighth. F. Stanley, first man up, working the count to three and two and then taking first on a walk. Bud didn't like the decision on the last ball and told Mr. Engle so in no uncertain language, but Engle is an arbitrary gentleman and wouldn't change his decision. Merrill rolled a bunt down the first base line, Coyle's throw being too soon for Culloton and both runners were safe. Stanley taking third and Merrill second. Tobin was given a walk, filling the bases with none down. Foster's high fly to O'Meara sent Stanley in from third, but Bud then struck out Terpening and McDermott, batting for Carpenter, for the second and third outs.

Wagner pitched the ninth inning for the Colonials, Dahm going out on a hit to Glaser and J. Stanley and Davis taking the count on three strikes.

With two down in the last of the ninth the Colonials put a faint flicker of hope in the Kingston fans. Deegan's grounder got by J. Stanley, and Coyle followed with a single to center. Robins hit to Foster at third, who tagged Deegan coming into the base for the final out of the game.

READING INFLUENCES STOCK-RAISERS MOST

Printed Word Outweighs Other Forms of Information.

Telegraph to The Freeman. Ithaca, N. Y., July 31.—An inquiry conducted by the federal department of agriculture among 525 farmers in 36 states shows that reading has been by far the principal factor in influencing these men to breed superior stock. The state agricultural college here cites the fact that 36 per cent of these farmers told the federal department that reading had influenced them to raise purebreds, in a statement given out today calling attention to its free correspondence courses in seven agricultural subjects.

These courses, in which more than 500 residents of the state are now enrolled, consist of reading in assigned text books and bulletins, supplemented by a certain amount of practical work so arranged that it can be done by any person who has access to the particular branch of agriculture he is studying. The work is handled through the office of publication, state college of agriculture, Ithaca, and enrollments are accepted only from residents of New York, at any time of year. Those who satisfactorily complete one of the courses are awarded a statement to that effect by the college faculty.

COLONIALS WIN FIRST CONTEST

From Parker Axes Saturday—Culliton Hurl Good Ball—Locals Get Twelve Safe Blows From Elongated Southpaw.

125 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was not a very cheerful place to be in Saturday night. In fact, if a prize had been given to the gloomiest place this side of the Mississippi, it would have come pretty close to coping it. By way of explanation, 125 Main street is the headquarters of Freddie Wetmore, and Freddie Wetmore, it need not be explained, is the manager of the Poughkeepsie Parker Axes.

Now, there must have been a reason for the gloomy atmosphere at the Parker Axes headquarters, and there was. It was a very good reason, one said to listen to if you are a Poughkeepsiean, but one that doesn't make you feel very bad if you are a Kingstonian.

Just as there must have been a reason for the gloom at the Parker Axes headquarters, there must have been a reason for the defeat, and there was. Perhaps the real reason was that the Kingston club had nine ball players on the field, while the Bridge City team had nine men in uniform, some of whom were ball players and the others were not.

Bud Culliton is not usually a vindictive fellow, but Bud was out for revenge Saturday. Bud never did like the Parker Axes, and after Saturday's game they like him still less. At that time, it was good to the Poughkeepsie men able to get by means of a safe blow, and ten times they went back to the dugout after swinging in vain at the third one. From the second inning to the eighth not a hit was made off Bud, only two men getting on in this period, one on a base on balls and the other on Culliton's own error.

If Benny Leonard is looking for some points on how to solve southpaws, he can get some mighty good information from the Colonials. Freddie used a tall southpaw named McDermott to set the Colonials down, and although the youngster tried hard, he found the going a bit too rough for him. Twelve times the Kingston club broke through his delivery for safe ones, six of the hits being good for extra bases. Bobby Coyle, with a three base blow to left and a home run over the left field fence, went to the head of the class in this respect.

Bill Schwab in left field had only one fielding chance in the game, but one such chance is enough for any game. There were two men on in the eighth inning with no one down when Terpening crashed a hit to left. From the stands it looked as if the ball was going over the fence, and the Poughkeepsie contingent was getting ready to let out a war-whoop. But Schwab spoiled the day for them. He judged the ball correctly, ran up the bank and grabbed the pellet just as it was about to crash into the fence. It was one of those catches you read about but don't often see.

The game was late in getting started, and when it did start it seemed to lack some of the usual Poughkeepsie versus Kingston color. Perhaps it was because Freddie didn't get there until over half an hour after the game was scheduled to start, and then only to announce that one or two of his players were missing. Why it was hard to tell, as two or three reasons were given for their absence.

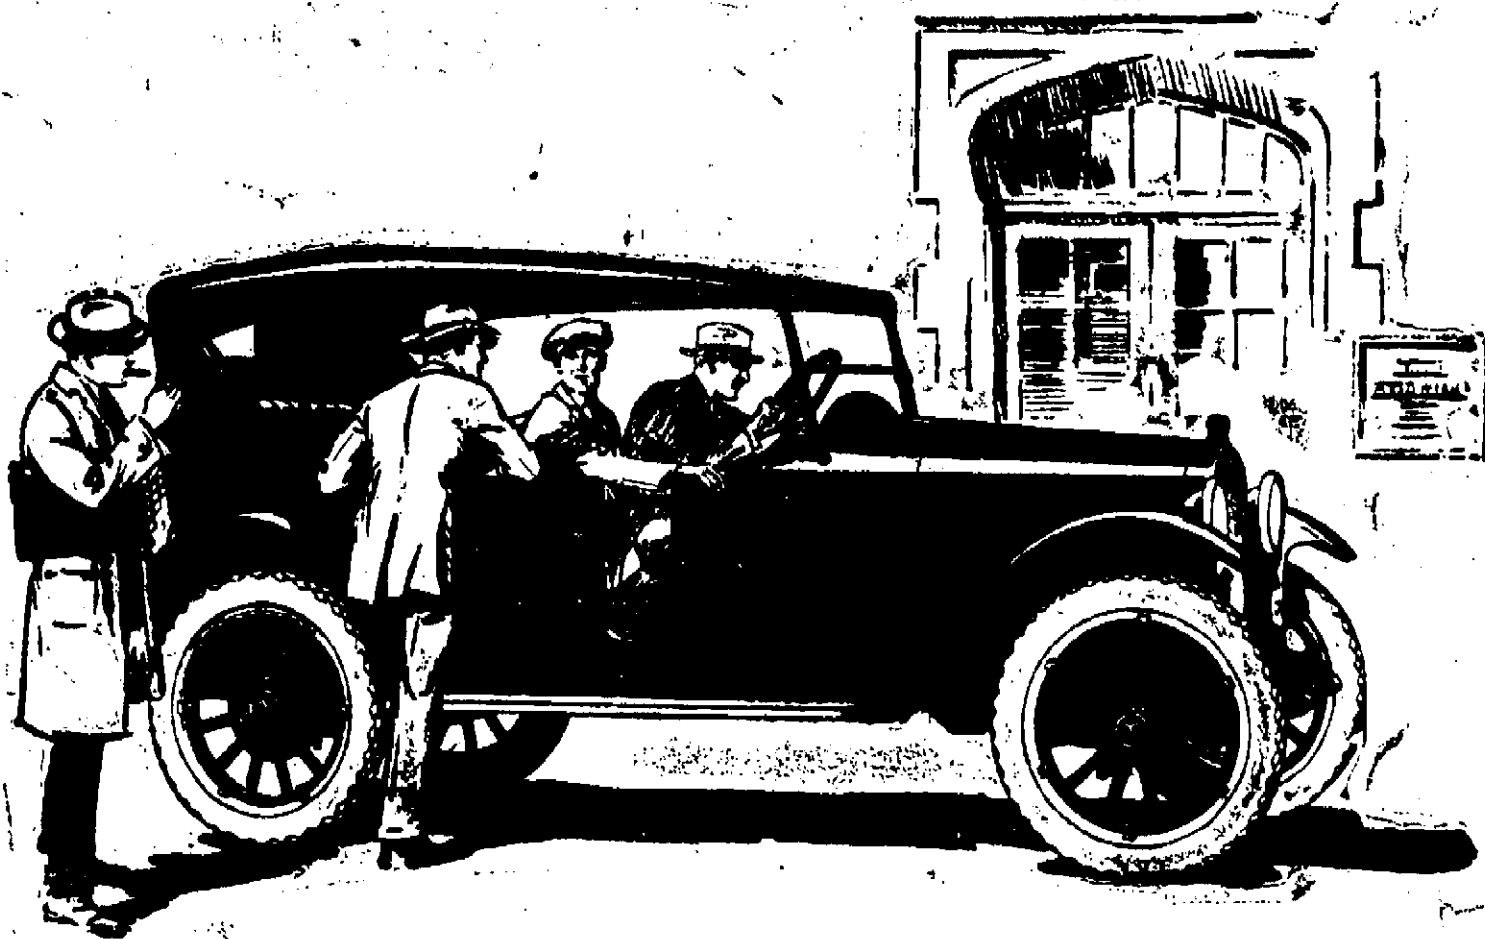

Captain Freddie Dahn started the scoring for his club in the second inning, reaching first on an error by Deegan and taking second on a sacrifice by Sammy Foster. "Foxy" Kaman was a victim on strikes, but Tom McCarthy came through with a single to center and Dahn scored. Bobby Coyle opened the second for the Kingston club with a three base blow over Steele's head in left. Steele, by the way, proved himself one of the best left fielders the Colonials have had in some time. Two or three times his fielding proved a big help to Captain Schirick's men. Schwab's hit past Foster scored Coyle and put the teams on even terms.

"Fritzy" O'Meara, who played right field in place of Rice, started the fourth by going out to Foster to Davis, but McDermott presented Deegan with a base on balls. Then Bobby Coyle happened to remember that he had not hit one over the left field in quite a while, so he proceeded to show the Poughkeepsie men just how he used to do it. Picking out one to his liking he promptly put it out of the lot, Deegan trotting home in front of him.

To make the thing more certain, the Colonials added two more in the fifth. Kid Moore hit to right field for two bags, and came home when Galt hit the fence in left field for another two. Sacker. Galt scored when McDermott let loose a wild pitch. While the Kingston team was doing its scoring, Bud was mowing down the opposition as fast as they came up to the pan. In every inning of the first seven the former Fordham star had at least one strike-out, getting three men in the first inning. Not until the eighth were Wetmore's men able to push another man over the plate, but in that inning they bunched three hits and sent two men over.

McDermott led off with a single to right, the first hit made by his team since the second inning. With a possible double play in sight Galt lost Davis's grounder, both men being safe. Schwab then turned in the best fielding stunt of the day by taking Terpening's fly against the fence and Carpenter went out on a hit to Fitzgerald. Elmer Steele, who had made himself decidedly unpopular with the crowd by trying to knock the ball from Coyle's hand after being thrown out in the sixth, hit one down the third base line too hot for Deegan to handle, filling the bases. Freddie Dahn singled to left and McDermott and Davis scored. The bases were filled for the second time in the inning when Culliton injured a pass to Foster. Kaman ended the inning by going out Culliton to Coyle.

The Colonials went out in the eighth and got the two runs back.

Hupmobile Engineers Command Large Manufacturing Facilities

It is fortunate for Hupmobile owners that our engineers have large manufacturing facilities at their exclusive command.

The wonderful Hupmobile dependability, its unique freedom from expense and adjustment and repair, is due to the Hupmobile way of building a motor car.

In the Hupmobile's own plants, its motor and transmission, clutch and axles and other essential parts are built to Hupmobile design and specifications, for the exclusive use of the Hupmobile.

No compromise of good designing or fine manufacturing is ever forced upon our engineers. They are entirely free from the limitations they might meet if they were dependent, for some vital parts on outside manufacturing sources.

This may explain Hupmobile performance and economy records that stand almost alone, among cars of higher and lower price alike; and such a length of life that it seems a Hupmobile has no wear-out point.

Culliton waited McDermott out and went to first on the Poughkeepsie pitcher's fifth pass of the game. Moore sacrificed him down a peg, and Bud went to third on Fitzgerald's fly to Terpening, beating the throw by inches. Galt was patient and received a walk. O'Mara crashed a hit to left and Culliton scored and Galt came home on Deegan's hard smash which McDermott knocked down but could not field. O'Mara was caught off third, Dahn to Foster on the hit.

Wedding Rings of Many Metals.
No standard regulation wedding ring has appeared since the early days of the world's war. All sorts of metals have been used. Some rings were made of silver. Rings of gold and silver without introduction of metal, at all have been used to the same end. Silver, wedding rings, and white metal rings, and these are, in fact, the only rings that are made of the same metal. The wedding rings of the world's war are made of silver.

One housewife cans a few vegetables from the garden every day or so instead of waiting to do it all at once. When more are picked than can be used on the table she finds that putting up a can or two takes little time and they soon count up.

Too Much.

A very stout man mounted the scales in a downtown drugstore the other day and dropped a penny in the slot. There was some wait, and the clanking and rattling of the inward of the contraption, and the pointer finally came to rest somewhere not far from the 300 mark. There was an unseen witness to the ceremony, and as the fat man woefully contemplated the result, the voice of a wee small boy piped up from behind him: "Say, mister, how many times did it go around?"

George Herbert's Poetry.

"I must confess, after all, that next to the Scripture-poems there are none so savory to me as Mr. George Herbert's. Herbert speaks to God like a man that really believeth in God, and whose business in the world is not with God; heart-work and heaven-work make up his book."

DOG OWNERS RUSHED TO CITY HALL TO GET LICENSE.

City Clerk Doremus was kept busy today with the rush of dog owners to secure licenses for their pets. Today was the last day that licenses could be had and those who neglected to do so are subject to arrest under the state law. The police department recently completed a dog census of the city and the list of owners was filed with the city clerk. Those who had dogs during the census and failed to obtain a license will be reported to the state authorities who take the necessary action to cause their arrest.
